

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to phenylaminopyrimidine derivatives, processes for their preparation, pharmaceutical compositions containing them as active ingredient, methods for the treatment of disease states such as cancers associated with tyrosine kinases, especially Bcr-Abl, to their use as medicaments and to their use in the manufacture of medicaments for use in the production of inhibition of tyrosine kinase reducing effects in warm-blooded animals such as humans.